The best card of the republican party is to stick to protection, and let the democrats go on quarrelling about it.

It is always a little dangerous to be prominent too soon. Early candidates tire the public before the race fairly starts.

It is considered more of an honor in the United States senate to be a millionaire and a good poker player, than a good statesman.

If General Logan is a real candidate for the presidency, we hope Stephen W. Dorsey will turn against him. It would be fatal to Logan to have Dorsey for him.

It has been decided by the republican state central committee to call two conventions,—one to select delegates to the national convention, and one to nominate candidates for state offices.

It was a singular event of Providence that both Frank C. Bradley and his wife should die simultaneously by heart disease. They were about 60 years of age, and both lay dead on the floor at the same time.

Some idea of the bulk of the flood in the Ohio river can be obtained by the statement made by the Louisville Courier-Journal, that an inch rise in the river is equal to the entire volume of water in the river at an ordinary stage.

The fact that a drunken club man in England recently threw a glass of ale in the face of one of Queen Victoria's sons, and threw it to hit, gives one to believe that the spirit of freedom in that country is not very fast asleep.

President Colby, of Milwaukee, telegraphs from Boston that he has raised $2,500,000 with which to extend the Wisconsin Centralroad from Chippewa Fall to St. Paul This will give the people of Green Bay, and that part of the state, a direct route to St. Paul.

The only bequest Wendell Phillips made outside of his own family, was as follows: "I give to Mrs. Sophie M. Springer, of West Chester, Pennsylvania, the sum of five hundred dollars, to be paid to her and held by herself free from the control or interference of any husband she may have."

Secretary of War Lincoln is a practical man. He doesn't care for red tape when emergency calls for prompt action. He has distributed $400,000 of the $500,000 appropriated by congress to the flood sufferers. Some would have waited till the grass began to grow before they dared touch a cent of the money. Mr. Lincoln is no Miss Nancy when vigorous and prompt action are demanded.

Republicans of Mahoning county, Ohio, to the number of 440, have expressed their preference for presidential nominee. For first choice Blaine has 370 supporters and Lincoln 19; for second choice, Lincoln Heads with 129, Logan following with 90. These straws count nothing, as time knocks to tatters all such premature sentiment.

If some modern Diogenes could only happen around this year and find a democrat who has the ability to ride two horses at the same time, while each is going in an opposite direction, it would be a boon to the democratic party. It wants just such a man to straddle the tariff question and at the same time be a candidate for the presidency.

Several attempts have been made of late to say something good of the United States senate regarding its genius. The last attempt is made by the Washington Republican: This will be a memorable congress. During the present week one senator whistled aloud while the senate was in session and the very next day another fell out of his chair. Just such incidents as these occurred during the days of Daniel Webster and Benton, and yet there are people who lament the departed glory of the senate.

At the session of the Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons, in Milwaukee, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year. Grand High Priest, E. J. Farr, Eau Claire; Deputy Grand High Priest, Stephen H. Alban, Wausau; Grand King, N. C. Daniells, Watertown; Grand Scribe, George S. Anthony, Darlington; Grand Treasurer, David H. Wright, Madison: Grand Secretary, John W. Ladin; Trustee for three years, R. Delos Pulford, Mineral point. The appointive officers were announced at a late hour this afternoon as follows: Grand Lecturer, M. L. Youngs, Milwaukee; Grand Chaplain, William E. Wright, Wausau; Captain of Host, M. R. Teegarden, Racine; Grand Principal Sojourner, R. J. Burdge, Beloit; Grand Royal Arch Captain, Edwin Ellis, Ashland; Grand Master First Vail, B. Burgess, Oshkosh; Grand Master Second Vail, A. S. Lee, Janesville; Grand Master Third Vail, George E. Budd, Lancaster; Grand Guard, Leonard Barrett, Milwaukee; Chairman Committee on Foreign Correspondence, William C. Swain, Milwaukee.

The Janesville Gazette suggests that a meeting be called of representative republicans to confer with the state central committee as regards the calling of a single or two conventions to do the selecting of delegates and for nominees for the state offices. The Gazette does not seem to be aware that these matters are all settled. The bosses have decreed it. Said an English lord once in parliament: "What concern have the people with the laws except to obey them." What concern have the republican masses with the management of the party? They have only to blindly follow where the bosses point the way. The little matter of conventions is all settled. The bosses have no possible concern in knowing what the people think of it.—Madison Democrat.

One of the chief glories of the republican party is that the people themselves control it. This principle has make it strong from the beginning of its organization till now. If bossism and machine rule, if blindly following the party leaders and submitting to the dictation of imperious men, had been the character of the republican party, it would not have been in power to-day The intelligence of the masses in this country, is largely in the republican party. It is composed of that class of voters who cannot be bought for two dollars a head. It is made up of reading, thinking, independent, and progressive men. Those have given it a power and success that never before were the lot of any political party in this country. This progressive spirit and intelligence have made it impossible for any man or any set of men to rule the party by dictation. It didn't work in the Chicago convention of 1880; it didn't work in New York when Mr. Conkling wanted to be returned to the senate after he resigned in a fit of madmadness; and it won't work now in Wisconsin or at any other time.

MR. INGERSOLL'S OPINION ON CANDIDATE AND THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Robert G. Ingersoll was in Chicago this week on his way to New Mexico, and while a guest at the Grand Pacific he was interviewed by a representative of the Evening Journal and politics and the presidency. There is no man in the United States who can furnish a more readable interview than Mr. Ingersoll. He is bright, sharp in his thrusts at the opposition, practical in his ideas, and generally speaks in a way that interests and instructs.

Mr. Ingersoll does not believe that the present administration will control the southern delegates for the reason that it has been extremely friendly with the southern republicans, and taking this division in the south with the division in the north, the chances of President Arthur he does not consider flattering. But as to the successful candidate, Mr. Ingersoll would not make even a prediction. He said the political pot is boiling, but no one has the slightest idea what the witches who are stirring it will succeed in producing, and the only thing to do is to wait.

One is led to judge from reading Mr. Ingersoll's interview that he is not an enthusiastic Blaine man in '84. There was a time, and it was only eight years ago, when Mr. Ingersoll thought Blaine to be the greatest statesman in this country. His exalted opinion of this dashing knight-errant of political chivalry, who had the courage to hurl his shining lance at the rebels in congress when other republicans dared not make the thrust, can best be estimated by Mr. Ingersoll's speech for Blaine at Cincinnati in 1876, a speech that gave the great infidel a national reputation. But in 1884, Mr. Ingersoll says of his "knight-errant of political chivalry"—

It has been said that several years after the cavalry of old Napoleon was disbanded, the moment the old horses heard the bugle-call they would immediately fall into line. Probably the campaign will have a like effect upon Mr. Blaine. The force of habit will be such that I think long before the convention meets he will be a candidate. He may not think that he wants the place, but I guess he does, and that want will probably be increased when he thinks somebody else may get it.

Mr. Ingersoll would not say whether Blaine would make a strong candidate or not, but he ventured to say: "Hitherto he has always been strong at the start, and has made exceedingly good time for the first half-mile, but never succeeded in getting his nose under the wire first."

As to the issues in the canvass, Mr. Ingersoll thought they would be the tariff and civil rights, and for that encouragement of the republicans he said the democrats would be on the wrong side of both questions. He would not express an opinion as to who would be the democratic candidate, but whoever he might be he would be defeated. It would be difficult for the democrats to find a candidate who would suit all the factions of the party unless they have a man who can squarely stand on both sides of the question.

The difficulty that stands in the way of the success of the democratic party this year is clearly pointed out by Mr. Ingersoll. The managers of the party, or at least most of them, are demanding free trade, and will crowd this issue on the campaign; and Mr. Ingersoll says:

The southern states are beginning to manufacture. Louisiana wants sugar protected, Missouri and Colorado want lead protected, and so I might go on over all the states. Every state has got something that it wants protected. Michigan wants lumber and salt protected. In other words, every state wants something, and in order to get that something it will help all the other states to get the somethings they want, and as a result there will be a general tariff. I believe in a tariff for protection, with incidental revenue. Raising a revenue should not be the main object of the tariff. The great purpose should be the protection of American manufactures.

There is a confusion of tongues among the democrats on this question of protecting, and the conflict of opinions and purposes will carry them down to defeat. The chief reason why Mr. Ingersoll thinks the republicans will succeed this year is because it represents the progressive spirit of the country at large. "It believes in internal imprisonment, in protecting American labor. It believes in good, sound, solid, honest money. It stands for the highest and best aspirations of the American people, and in my judgment that party will continue to succeed until the democratic party adopts nearly all of its theories."

Four States Swept by a Devastating Tornado.

The Dead Numbered by Hundreds---Destruction of Property Incalculable.

Death Mounts the Whirlwind and His Path Is One of Carnage and Ruin---The Storm's Triumph.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 21.—A volume of cloud, with a loud rumbling noise, was observed moving north from the Alabama line, near the edge of Harris county. The skies overhead assumed a dull, leaden hue, with that peculiar tint which denotes an overcharge of the electric current. The great handle which marked the track of the destructive funnel from the gulf here split like the prongs of a fork, one taking a northeast direction, following the valley of the Chattahoochie, further up bending to the west, striking Cave Springs and Rome, across the country through Barlow, Cherokee, Pickens, and other counties west, seeking out an outlet possibly in the vicinity of Norfolk, Va. The other prong took an eastern curve, careening through Dougher and Sumter counties across to Columbia up to about the Atlantic. Along the track of this fork the destruction of life and property was fearful.

One of the first results was the destruction of the wires, thus rendering news difficult to obtain. As it is, enough has been gotten to show that 500 lives at least have been lost, that 5,000 houses must have been destroyed, and that the damage to property must reach $1,000,000. The stories of suffering are incredible. The storm pursued the well known course from the gulf to the northeast. Here in Atlanta the storm did little injury, this immediate vicinity being on the edge of the track. Rain fell in large quantities, however, and the rivers in the vicinity are much swollen.

In North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 21.—The recent hurricane surpasses anything of the kind in the history of the country. There were three electric storms in the midst of the general storm. One of these at 9 o'clock swept just north of here in Wake county, near Cary, wrecking the dwelling of Tinker Sorrell, as well as all his outbuildings. Sorrell was caught in the ruins and his leg broken. Sweeping on eastwardly the storm wrecked the large residence of George Peebles, a prominent farmer, crushing him to jelly under the heavy beams. A timber struck his brother, destroying his sight and causing fatal injuries. Their aged mother was badly hurt. A stock on the plantation was killed. To the east of this farm many small buildings are reported wrecked.

South of here from fifty to 100 miles the storm was most furious. The sky appeared to be on fire. The velocity of the wind was sixty to 100 miles an hour. The storm entered the state from South Carolina, having at Darlington, S. C., killed four men. Telegraph wires were prostrated, and trains nearly blown off the track.

Near Polkton, Anson county, a white man and his wife in a farm-house went into the cellar. The house was blown entirely away, the woman instantly killed, and the man caught in the timbers and badly wounded. Several negroes were killed in houses and in the public road. Among the dead found there was a mother with a baby clasped close to her breast. The wind had blown both away from the ruins of a house into a swamp.

Great trees, among them the largest oaks and pines, were swept away like straws. The air was full of flying debris. Hail fell continuously, stones accurately measured being two and a half by one and a half inches. The track of the storm is marked by utter devastation.

Leaving Polkton, it passed in an easterly direction, crossing the Carolina Central railroad two miles west of Rockingham, and then in all its fury struck that town. Rockingham has a population of about 1,000 and is a prominent station on the line of the Carolina Central railroad, a hundred miles from Raleigh, and near the South Carolina line. Just at 9 o'clock the storm struck the town and in a moment had wrecked nearly all houses in the northern suburbs. The people, not suspecting such a catastrophe, were caught in their houses and twenty-three instantly killed. These were white and black men, women and children.

Ravages in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 21.—A correspondent boarded the regular passenger train on the Georgia Pacific and went to Leeds, fifteen miles east of this city, to get further particulars of the terrible cyclone that swept through the Cahawba valley. No idea of the devastation can be conceived without visiting the track of the cyclone. At 10 o'clock the people saw a dense funnel-shaped cloud, black as night, approaching, and the whole heavens illuminated with a peculiar glow. As it approached shafts darted from the top of the cloud toward the earth with almost lightning rapidity. At 1:30 o'clock it swept over the town of Leeds, 100 yards east of the depot, leaving absolutely nothing in the way of houses and trees in its path. It followed the track of the Georgia Pacific road, six miles, covering it with debris. The west-bound train from Atlanta was fifteen minutes behind time and escaped total destruction. The east-bound train was stopped by a tree blown across the road some distance from the track of the cyclone, and thus both trains were saved. Before night 200 hands were put to work clearing the road, and this morning trains passed without delay.

The scene around Leeds beggars description. A house just completed was blown away, and not even a brick left where the house stood. Horses, mules, and cows were killed, and in some instances had fence-rails driven clear through their bodies. At Dr. Wright's two horses were killed and three blown away and never heard from. He is a contractor on the road, and all his horses, twenty-three carts, and two wagons are utterly demolished and blown away. The killed so far reported number eleven and there are twenty-one wounded, one-third fatally. Mrs. Bass had a small stone an inch in diameter blown into her back, and it had to be cut out by physicians. She is not expected to live.

South Carolina Suffers.

COLUMBUS, S. C., Feb. 21.—South Carolina was visited by one of the most destructive cyclones that have ever occurred in this section. The tornado entered the state from a northeasterly direction, and Chester was the first town struck; great damage done, and six or eight people severely injured.

Towards midnight the town of Darlington was attacked by the resistless cyclone, and great destruction of property and loss of life followed. Six persons were killed outright, and at least twenty others injured more or less seriously. Mr. R. W. Boyd, an eminent lawyer, was dangerously hurt.

At Jackson Station, S. C., nearly every structure was blown away, and five negroes and a negress were killed. On Dr. Eayes' plantation one colored woman was killed and many injured. Tom Walters, colored, was carried 300 yards through the air and his brains dashed out against a tree. The wind then tore the body almost limb from limb. Two of his children perished near their father.

At Bradley twenty-five houses were demolished, and Dr. Ligon's whole family of nine persons perished beneath a church in which they had taken refuge.

At Ninety-six, a railroad station, a house was blown down, fatally injuring six persons, and consuming an infant child in the burning ruins.

A Town Swept Away.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 21.—A passenger from northeast Georgia says, "You can form no idea of the extent of the destruction that the storm has wrought in the mountain counties. I have seen the tracks of most of the south Georgia cyclones, but have never seen one that swept over such a wide track and left such a pathway of ruin behind it as this one. Just think of a sweep of wind wiping out a strip of timber three miles across and making it look as though an immense mowing-machine had been run through it. It cut cleanly at the edges. The country town of Tates was swept away completely. The inhabitants were thrown out of the houses and their furniture scattered in every direction. Darnell, a merchant, who was counting a large pile of money when the cyclone struck the town, lost it all, it being blown away. A new storehouse, two stories high, the property of Darnell & Tates, the Cool Springs church, the dwellings of T. J. Darnell, John Wood, Mrs. Dooley, Betsy Chitford, Henry Pattle, Pink Morit, and Jack Goss were all blown down, and five horses belonging to one of the citizens were killed. Mrs. Darnell, Miss Bradford, John Perry and wife, and Luke Wook were seriously injured by falling walls and timbers of the various houses. When the storm struck Wook's house it was shivered to atoms, and he and his little son were saved from instant death by throwing themselves behind an immense trunk that caught the timbers. Tates' mill on Long Swamp and the mill at Cool Springs were both blown down. I reached Tates by the southward-bound train about ten minutes after the cyclone passed, and saw the distressed inhabitants just as they were emerging from their demolished homes.

"At Canton I heard the most distressing story. As the train stopped there, a courier rode into town at a furious rate for a physician. He stated that seven miles above Canton a school had been dismissed on account of threatening weather. Some of the children on their way home stopped in an old house to escape the rain. While they were in there the storm struck the house, blowing it down and killing twelve children and wounding a number of others."

Another Town Annihilated.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 21.—Further advices received here at a late hour from points along the two routes taken by the cyclone, which swept through Georgia, not only confirm previous reports, but give additional casualities. In Jasper county the town of Hillsboro, named after the late Senator Hill, it being his birthplace, was completely swept away. The town was composed entirely of wooden houses, and as a consequence was an easy victim.

In the adjoining county, Putnam, the damage done was equally as great. A wooden structure in which Representative Robert C. Humbert and five negroes had taken shelter was blown down. The negroes were killed outright and the others seriously injured. Representative Humbert was caught under a chimney and so seriously injured that the worst results are expected at any moment. Hailstones fell, many of them weighing a pound each, inflicting a great deal of damage to live stock.

Advices from Putnam note the death of eighteen negroes from the ravages of the storm.

A Thousand Houses Destroyed.

ROME, Ga., Feb. 21.—A terrific wind and rain storm visited here. It commenced at half-past 1 o'clock and continued at intervals until Broad street was flooded, while the signs and awnings flew in all directions. The rainfall was tremendous. There was a considerable fall of sleet during the storm. The fine residence of W. S. Crane, in course of erection, was completely demolished, and about 1,000 residences were destroyed in the county. The barn of J. H. Dowdle, about five miles from town, was entirely destroyed. A number of frame houses in the upper the part of city were demolished. No loss of life in the city is reported.

Advices received from Cave Springs report great loss of life. It is reported that Mr. Gilliard and young Mr. Gilliard were killed by the falling beams. Two negroes are also reported killed. Mrs. Hoke was seriously injured. The family of Mr. Ford were also seriously hurt on the line of the East Tennessee road.

A Desolated Country.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 21.—A special dispatch dated Pomeroy, Ohio, says: "The Kalio Stockdale has come through a stricken country, reaching from Gallipolis, Ohio, to Huntington, W. Va., 300 miles west from Pittsburg. It is a country devoid of railroads and telegraphs, with many small saw-mill and barrel factory towns. Most of the mills and factories are swept away, and nothing left, and scarce half of them will ever be restored. The people are only just commencing to realize their dread condition and seem struck dumb, the more they stare into the future the blacker and more impenetrable it becomes. There are some eighteen towns in the fifty-nine miles gone over Monday and probably not half will ever recover, and the remainder will be stricken for years. There is great suffering on the backwater sloughs, and creeks and ravines that cannot be seen from the boat. The Stockdale has delivered help for $20,000 families to date, and is now on her way to Antiquity in Pomeroy bend. The river falls slowly. A very cold wave is passing up the valley.

The Outrage Investigations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—In the investigation at Washington regarding the Danville riot, Capt. Graves asked leave to explain that he had never been a negro-trader for profit, but had sold slaves which he inherited. W. H. Barksdale, a colored clergyman, said the negroes felt that they would not go to the polls under the menace of powder and lead. In the inquiry at New Orleans as to the Copiah county outrages, two colored men testified that they had been threatened with pistols and ropes until they promised to vote the Democratic ticket.

OPPOSING THE POSTAL.

Another Telegraph Company Argues Against Postal Telegraph.

Bismarck Thinks He Is a Better Judge of German Politics Than the United States Congress—News Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The senate committee on postoffices and post-roads has received from President A. W. Dimock, of the Bankers' & Merchants' Telegraph company, a communication accompanied by a map showing the extent of the company's lines. In his communication Mr. Dimock says: "We fully appreciate how disastrous it would be for the people and business of this country to be left subject to the tyrannical control of the Western Union Telegraph company. If there was no rescue from monopoly except by the strong hand of government interference, then such interference would be justified in its origin and welcome in its results. But we respectfully claim that a telegraph system operated by the government ought not to be adopted except as a last resort, when it clearly appears that the people who are the sufferers from monopoly are unable of themselves to obtain relief. Such relief may be obtained by means of competing companies. Of such competing companies, the Bankers & Merchants' Telegraph company is the largest, and is from its very structure an anti-monopoly and popular corporation. It is not an adjunct to a railroad company, nor is its telegraphic apparatus of so novel and expensive a kind that it can hope to do business only between a few large cities. It was organized in 1881, because the then existing state of things was too oppressive to be borne, and it has since drawn to itself other organizations whose charters demanded freedom from monopoly, and consequent independence of Western Union control in any form. There is no danger that this company will merge with the Western Union. Much of its most valuable property has been acquired on the express condition that in case it shall cease to do business as an independent company, uncontrolled by those whose interests now lie with competing corporations, then the right to have or use such property shall cease, and further, in case of any such merger with Western Union, the companies now associated as parts of the Bankers & Merchants' telegraph system, would sever their present connection and would be free to continue business as separate organizations. Nor can it be driven from the field by a war of rates. Its stock is wholly free from 'water;' its property has been bought at fair prices and paid for in cash. By the excellence of its telegraphic service it has more than held its own against all its competitors. As an illustration I will merely cite the fact that it transmits more of the dispatches sent between the New York and Philadelphia stock exchanges (a service demanding the highest efficiency) than all other telegraph companies combined. It was one of the very few companies whose operators remained in service during the whole of the great telegraphers' strike."

Mr. Dimock further states that the company has in operation a pole mileage of nearly 5,000 miles, and a wire mileage of more than 34,000 miles, and has under contract, now building, and to be completed within a very few months, a further wire mileage of over 30,000 miles. The map which accompanies the communication shows that the lines of the company will soon reach from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Missouri river. It is shown further that the company has a further contract with a cable company for a cable to Europe; that 400 offices are now in operation; that it has a contract with "The United Press" for the transmission of its news dispatches; that it has a controlling interest in the United States Telephone company, and in the Commercial Telegram company, under which stock and produce quotations are being distributed similarly with those furnished by the Gold and Stock company, which is controlled by the Western Union.

In conclusion President Dimock says: "We are ready to enter into a contract with the United States for the transmission of telegraphic dispatches over our lines upon very reasonable terms, and we believe that we can perform the service more efficiently and economically than it could be done by the government."

The Keifer-Boynton Case.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The investigation of the Keifer-Boynton case has fairly begun. Gen. Keifer went on the stand and substantially reiterated his statement made in the house. He was cross-examined by Gen. Boynton, but nothing interesting was elicited, as he simply stood by his version of the matter. He fixed the time of the interview between himself and Boynton as about the first of March.

J. Guilford White, of Springfield, Ohio, who was clerk to Speaker Keifer at the time of the alleged interview, swore that he saw Gen. Boynton in the speaker's room on the 1st or 2d of March, 1883. Saw him sitting with Gen. Keifer at his desk, and he was talking in a low tone of voice. He heard Gen. Keifer say, "I have already recognized Mr. Dunnell, of Minnesota, to move to suspend the rules." Gen. Keifer looked at witness as much as to say, "We want a private interview," and witness got up from his work and left the room. He saw in Gen. Boynton's hand what looked like a house or senate bill.

On cross-examination, witness admitted that Speaker Keifer did not hand to him this request of Gen. Boynton to recognize Mr. Dunnell, although it was his custom to refer such requests for recognition to witness. After examining this witness the committee adjourned.

Senate and House.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The senate passed a bill appropriating $600,000 per annum for arms and equipments for the militia. Plumb reported a bill to raise the agricultural bureau to a department with a secretary. A resolution was passed directing the secretary of the interior to report the amount of lands patented to railroads in Iowa. A bill was passed to fix the time for holding federal courts in Iowa. Some progress was made on the bill to provide circulation for national banks.

The house of representatives passed a resolution calling on the postmaster general to transmit certain unpublished reports by special agents in the star-route investigations. A joint resolution was passed appropriating $150,000 to be expended for educating Indians. A bill was reported to forfeit the Oregon Central land grant, and a resolution requesting the president not to deliver Senor Carlos Aguero to the Spanish authorities until an investigation is made by the attorney general.

Bismarck Gives His Reasons.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The letter of Prince Bismarck to the German minister at Washington in regard to the resolutions of condolence upon Herr Lasker's death, adopted by the American congress, is published here. "The resolutions express views contrary to my own conviction, and it is impossible for me to ask the emperor's permission to present to the reichstag a document containing opinions which I cannot justify." The reichstag meets on March 6. Prince Bismarck also remarks that praise of a German citizen by the American nation would, under ordinary circumstances, be gratifying to him, but in these resolutions opinions were expressed which were contrary to Prince Bismarck's understanding of the facts as to Herr Lasker's position. He considered that thirty years of labor for the development and elevation of Germany entitled him to place more value on his own judgment as to which constituted true German patriotism than upon ill-advised expressions of sentiment by foreigners.

Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The Democrats of the house held a caucus immediately after the house adjourned. The Democratic senators did not accept the invitation to participate, having appointed a committee to confer with a like committee from the house in regard to a preliminary plan of operation. Messrs. Carlisle, Randall, Morrison, Eaton, Reagan, Barbour, Hewitt of New York, Thompson, and Cabb, were accordingly appointed as members of such committee on the part of the house caucus. The following was also adopted: "That it is the sense of this caucus that no Democrat should absent himself from the sessions of the house without leave." The caucus was in session about an hour.

The Spanish-American Treaty.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The president has issued a proclamation announcing that an agreement was executed at Madrid on Feb. 14 by which Spain agreed to abolish the discriminating customs duty heretofore imposed upon the products of, and articles proceeding from the United States, imported into the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico, said abolition to take effect March 1. On the part of the United States the extra duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem which it has imposed on the products and articles from Cuba and Porto Rico is suspended and discontinued. The principal articles affected are sugar and tobacco.

Removed and Appointed.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—H. J. McCusick, superintendent of the railway mail service at San Francisco, has been removed by the postmaster general and James L. Wilder, assistant superintendent, stationed at Chicago, appointed to take his place. William P. Campbell, of Chicago, was appointed assistant superintendent of the railway mail service to succeed Mr. Wilder at Chicago.

More Mexican Duty.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The Mexican government has issued a decree imposing an additional duty of 5 per cent. on all articles imported into Mexico, the same to take effect May 15 next.

Confirmed.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of Charles L. Holstein, of Indiana, as United States attorney.

Chicago Still Leads.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 21.—The canvass for the Democratic convention continues brisk. Chicago appears to lead all others.

ALONG THE OHIO.

Flood News Summarized.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The flood in the Ohio is said to have done greater damage at Lawrenceburg than at any other point, the ruin far exceeding that of last year. The storm at New Albany wrecked the river front of DePauw's glass-works, covering an entire block. The relief store at Aurora, Ind., is reported full of provision, and goods are being wisely distributed. The blizzard imperiled the lives of twenty citizens at Shawneetown, and washed away a school house and a depot. The levees at Cairo still shut out the water, and a line of barges and flat-boats has been so placed as to break the force of the waves. A relief boat which put out from Evansville returned with thirty-seven persons taken from houses wrecked by the storm. The secretary of war wants suffering people to remember that he can not use the relief appropriation to repair dwellings destroyed by the flood.

The Situation at Shawneetown.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ills., Feb. 21.—The worst to be feared from the flood has come. Water now covers last year's marks and is rising slowly. A terrible wind from the west struck the town during the night, making the waves roll to a prodigious height, shattering buildings and tearing up everything in its course. Only here and there a house stood the shock. There were many miraculous escapes from drowning of persons who were caught by the storm in skiffs. Houses torn up from their foundations are floating down stream, crashing against each other with destructive results. The villages of Blackburn and Raliegh, across the river, were virtually swept out of existence.

Mob Law Again.

LEBANON, Ky., Feb. 21.—Ben McElroy and Finton Young, both colored, were hanged by a mob here for a rape on Susan Gribbin last Saturday night. The evidence as to McElroy's guilt was direct and positive, and as to Young's merely circumstantial. About 8 o'clock a party of about fifty men went to the jail, and failing to get the keys began breaking the doors with sledge-hammers. The prisoners were taken to the turn-table and hanged to a bar. They died from strangulation. McElroy and Young both protested their innocence. McElroy was very game, and when it was found that there was not enough rope he remarked: "I'm in a dime to buy more." Young weakened but remained quiet most of the time.

Between three and four hundred Insurance Companies in this country have gone to the wall—either failed outright or re-insured their risks and retired from the field since 1870, and more of the weaklings will go year by year. The one hundred millions of dollars annually destroyed by fire in this country is sure to bankrupt them. Our rates are as low as other responsible companies. NEW PUBLICATIONS.

HOMER'S TROY.

TROJA, Results of the Latest Researches and Discoveries on the Site of Homer's Troy. And a Narrative of a Journey in the Troad in 1881. By Dr. Henry Schliemann, Author of "Ilios," "Troy and its Remains," and "Mycenæ and Tiryns." New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers. Price $7.50.

In this account of his journey in the Troad in 1881, and his excavations in search of Homer's Troy, in 1862, Dr. Schliemann announces that his work, both of exploration and of writing, is brought to a close. He says: "My work at Troy is now ended forever, after extending over more than the period of ten years, which has a fated connection with the legend of the city. How many tens of years a new controversy may range around it, I leave to the critics; that is their work; mine is done." This last book is regarded as the supplement and completion of his "Ilios," published in 1880, but it is also partly a rectification of that work. It establishes, as well as anything can be established by excavations and criticism, two points of great interest to scholars. The first is that the Trojans belonged to the Aryan race, went to Troy from Thrace, and spoke a dialect very much like the dialect of Thrace and Phrygia. The second is that the second prehistoric city was not confined to the citadel of Hissarlik, but was spread out also over the lower ground. This obviates the objection to the theory that the second city was the Troy of Homer, and the unmistakable marks of a conflagration which he unearthed well-nigh made the proof a demonstration. To make assurance doubly sure he has carried his researches into every part of the Troad, without finding anywhere such ruins and remains as he found at this point. This splendid work is enriched with a preface of thirty pages by Professor Henry A. Sayce, of Oxford; in which he learnedly supports Dr. Schliemann's theories, and praises him without stint for his heroic labors in the interest of science. Few of the doctor's readers and admirers have been aware of the hardships and sufferings amid which he prosecuted his self-appointed work, and brought it to a glorious issue in his last volume. The Turkish authorities, with the characteristic suspicion of an ignorant people, doggedly refused to believe that anyone would dig trenches and pits all over the country to settle an insignificant point in history and geography and attributed his labor to some secret plot against the government. He was, therefore, not only subjected to an impudent espionage, but trammeled with regulations and conditions which sometimes went to the very verge of stopping his labors altogether. In addition to these obstacles the country is often afflicted with storms of wind and dust which make the use of the shovel well nigh impossible, and with cold weather sufficiently vigorous to suspend his operations for a long time. In need only be added that the doctor was occasionally in bed with severe attacks of malarial fever, to make it obvious that the twelve years and more which he gave to this work were by no means a holiday.

Any person who has the somewhat uncommon taste for archæology and exploration which inspired the author would be apt to read this large volume of 434 pages at a sitting, if the limitations of human nature did not interrupt him. Dr. Schliemann's romantic history, and his colossal critical ability which has elevated him from an American retail grocery to a leading position among the scientists of the world, invest everything he has written with an irresistible charm, additional to its intrinsic merit. The present volume is as good as, and in some respects better than any he has produced. It is copiously and beautifully illustrated with maps and landscapes and with wood-cuts of the objects he has exhumed on the site of ancient Troy. The style of criticism and expression is that for which Dr. Schliemann is well known and unrivaled. Everything has been observed with microscopical exactness and almost religious conscientiousness, and the descriptions and speculations based on his discoveries are profound, learned and judicious. The publishers have contributed much to the interest and attractiveness of the volume. The print is large, and the binding unostentatious, but elegant, and befitting the dignity of the subject matter.

Emerald Grove.

—On Sabbath evening, February 10th, Rev. I. S. Oadams delivered an able temperance lecture in the M. E. church, and the Sabbath evening following, February 17th, Rev. Mr. Jackson spoke on the same subject. Both these meetings were well attended, and it is earnestly hoped that much good has been done thereby. Mr. and Mrs. R. Cheney sang, with touching effect, the song, "Where is my boy to-night," on one of the occasions. Let the good work go on.

—The donation at the Congregational parsonage on Thursday evening last was largely attended. Supper was prepared by the ladies of the congregation, and over one hundred persons partook. The donation amounted to $73 in cash. The following Sabbath Rev. Mr. Jackson expressed from the pulpit the hearty thanks of himself and family to the many donors for their kindly remembrance on the above-mentioned occasion.

—Tea and ginger cake social at Mr. Thomas Barlass' residence on Friday evening next, for the benefit of the Congregational mite society.

—Mr. Mills, principal of the graded school in Darien, spent last Saturday visiting his friend and schoolmate, W. D. McGregor.

—Mrs. N. B. Prichard, of Janesville, spent a Sabbath, recently, at Mr. Peter Delmater's visiting her daughter, who is teaching school in that neighborhood.

—If you wish to enjoy yourself go to Mr C. H. Stollers leap year chicken social to be held at his residence on Friday evening Feb. 29th. All are cordially invited to attend. Girls, do your level best.

—Granulated sugar, the very best quality. 12 lbs. for $1.00 at Hastings.

—A meeting of the farmers interested in the creamery project took place in the school house at the Grove on Wednesday evening of last week, Dr. Seeber presiding as chairman, and A. E. Jomer as secretary. An interesting description of the centrifugal machine for butter making was read by the secretary, after which the reports from committees showed that nearly 500 cows had been conditionally pledged. The committee for negotiating with parties to run the institution requested a little more time before reporting anything definite. Another meeting takes place on Wednesday of this week.

—The roads are favorable for runaways and horses of good judgment seem to be taking advantage of the fact. A horse belonging to Wm. Brown hitched near Mr. Thomas Barlass' residence, broke loose and started at a furious pace running as far as the Scotch church where it was stopped and secured by Mr. Ed, Verback. No damage of consequence Another runaway occurred on Friday, a team belonging to E. Ransom, which was being driven from Janesville by Elmer Irish took fright near Henry Lloyds, Sr. and could not be stopped until reaching the store at Emerald Grove. Another evidence of good judgment in horses—probably wanted to buy something of Hastings.

—A Surprise party was given Mr. Wm. Brown, who is on a home visit from Dakota. The affair was managed by the young people of the Grove and proved a most pleasant occasion.

—Some of the church going people of the prosperous village of Emerald Grove have proposed a "night cap" social. Why not ring in a "night dress" to go with it. Only a night cap is a poor piece of property this winter. Suppose any one but a "church goer" have such a contrivance and they would be considered ailing in the upper story. But then if it is for the church it may be all right," * *

Again! and Again!

The wheels of Time turn with an exact regularity, and although this is Leap Year, every month on the second Tuesday thereof, in the city of New Orleans, in the state of Louisiana, the Grand Monthly Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery takes place in due form, with all guards for the integrity of the act and its surroundings that can be secured by the high moral character of Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia. The 166th Drawing takes place on Tuesday, March 11th, 1884, when $265,000 will be scattered broadcast, about which M. A. Dauphin, of New Orleans, La., will tell you all about on application.

Harmony.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gurnsey and family, of Kansas, have moved back to old Rock Prairie, and at present are stopping at Mr. James Mansur's, Mrs. Gurnsey's father.

—Mr. Henry Sweeny and Will Feathstone start this week for Kansas, to look out for a home on one of Uncle Sam's prairie ranches.

—Wolves are getting quite plenty when they come so near as to play peek-a-boo through half open doors. Ask Herb Palmer all about it.

—Ghosts seem to be plenty at and near Mr. Hankee's this winter and people are wondering if it was not a Mother Hubbard.

—It is said that Mr. John Hicks is soon to move out to his old home. Come on John, we want all the men like you in our town that we can get.

—Charley Rand and wife are expected home this week.

"Oh, my brok!" is a common exclamation and expresses a world of misery and suffering. It is singular this pain arises from such various causes. Kidney diseases, liver complaint, wasting affections, colds, rheumatism, dyspepsia, overwork and nervous debility are chief causes. When thus ailing seek prompt relief. It can be found best in Brown's Iron Bitters. It builds up from the foundation by making the blood rich and pure. Leading physicians and ministers use and recommend it. It has cured many, and if you are a sufferer try it.

Mr. John Myer, Sheboygan, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for rheumatism and pains and am now well."

Mrs. G. F. Henzellman, Johnsonville, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for heart disease, weakness, general decline, etc., and feel like a new person."

A Pleasant Gathering.

The brothers of the Masonic lodge at Footville, thinking they would like to honor their aged and long-respected member, Mr. E. A. Douglas, of Plymouth, invited their families and friends to assist on the occasion. Mr. Douglas was informed of their intentions, and made ample arrangements to greet them. At an early hour the house was illuminated, and as the friends approached, they saw above and below, from every window a beam of welcome. The spacious parlor and sitting room were joined by an arch of evergreen, and the dining room was decorated emblematical of the order. Mrs. Douglas assisted by her niece, Miss Ella Beach, were ready to receive them. The time was passed in social chat and games, until the worthy steward announced supper was ready. On responding to the call, all were tempted by the oder from the oysters and sight of the long table laden with fruit, flowers, and the many and great variety of delicacies prepared by the ladies. To labor as they were not wont to do, and as they returned to the parlors were heard to say, "Our chaplain remarked truly when he said it was pleasant to turn from labor to refreshment." The table was filled again and again until all were served. And when the clock began to tell the small hours of the morning had come, they departed, wishing that like the house of Bethany, they might receive everlasting life and glory.

A Tunkhannock lawyer, known to many of our readers, testifies that he was cured of partial deafness.—Pittston, Pa., Gazette.

Center.

—Don't forget that next Saturday is monthly meeting of Center Grange. A good programme has been prepared and the day will be profitably spent in listening to essays, select readings, declamations and a lecture from the Dr. Come every granger and have a general feast of good things.

—If it wasn't for being too personal we would like to give a list of the names of those who persist in borrowing their neighbors papers long enough to read the Center jots and then spend the remainder of the week spitting venom at the jotter for not exercising more charity.

—J. T. Snyder takes the cake and beats the whole neighborhood in selling his tobacco at remunerative figures, (considering), John always was a good salesman and a carful financier, and to-day stands on his own pegs a self made man.

—One of the most pleasant events of our knowledge was the wedding at Brother R. J. Nott's last Wednesday evening. In the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends, Miss Etta Nott and Mr. Charles Williams were pronounced man and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Williams have the hearty congratulations and well wishes of a world of friends as they journey fourth on the voyage of their new life, and the especial thanks of the jotter for their very liberal supply of cake.

—As was predicted the services at the German church last Sunday were particularly interesting and at the close two of the most aged people in the congregation were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

—Quite a number of our best farmers expect to attend the farmers convention at Milton Junction this week.

—The tin wedding at Footville Saturday evening is looked forward to with considerable pleasure. The presumption is that Frank will have the wrestle all taken out of him on this occasion.

—A. L. Fisher spends most of his time of late reading the stock reports, and manifests considerable uneasiness as the time draws near for him to deliver his thirty or forty hogs, at five cents per pound. —If you want to see a nice drove of Norman horses, call on Bill Drafahl. He has several young horses for sale.

—The tobacco stripping will be nearly all completed the present week. Fully one-fourth of the crop still remains unsold.

—Fred Fuller thinks some of going into the circus business the coming season, as a bareback rider. Fred can ride anything.

—G. I. Parmley and A. J. Ross left these parts last Friday for Richland, purporting to be absent only a few days, on a speculating tour. They have not been heard from since, and their wives are almost desperate, and in fact Mrs. Ross is reported sick with the epidemic. Throat very sore.

—The list of sick in the neighborhood seems to be enlarging, nearly every family complaining of colds.

—Mr. F. M. Crow has concluded to go to Beloit and engage in the drug business the first of April. Frank is a clever fellow, and will make friends as long as he lives.

Milton.

—C. S. Vincent, one of the old settlers in town, died very suddenly at his home on Rock River, Sunday night. He was in usual health, and Sunday, after eating dinner, shouldered his ax and went into the woods to chop. Not returning when he should, the family became alarmed, and sent after him. He was found in a helpless condition, and lived but a few hours. Mr. Vincent was for many years town assessor, and known to everyone in this section. We are not informed when the funeral will take place.

—Warren Walker and wife, late of Monticello, Minnesota, are in town visiting friends. They are on their way east with a view to making that section their home, but we wish they might decide to make Milton their future home and can assure them of a hearty welcome from our community.

—The prospect for a joint stock bank here with a cash capital of $25,000, is very flattering. Farther particulars on early date.

—Station Agent Tomkins was on the sick list last week, but is much better at the present writing.

Mrs. S. D. B. Schultz has organized a writing class here.

—Prof. Lucius Heritage, of Madison, finished last summer the manuscript for an edition of the "Dialogues de Oratoribus," by Tacitus, and the work is to appear from the press of Ginn, Heath & Co. as one of the classical series which is being published under the supervision of Profs. Peck, of Yale, and Smith of Harvard. Mr. Heritage is still in Leipsic Germany, pursuing his classical studies, and is not expected back until the coming summer vacation—Milwaukee Sentinel.

—G. S. Stannard was on the sick list last week, with a sore throat, in fact there is a sore throat epidemic prevailing here, not dangerous, and almost everybody gets a touch.

—The many friends and patrons of Miss May Baldwin will be glad to hear that she has resumed her work here. Miss Baldwin is an artist of much ability, and her pupils appreciate the fact. Ladies who wish instruction should make immediate application.

—Rev. E. M. Dunn preached a sermon on the "Sabbath" question as viewed from a Seventh Day Baptist standpoint, Saturday morning. There were a goodly number of Sunday people present to hear his arguments.

—L. F. Bennett, who wields a dust-raiser on the boys who attend the Orfordville school, was in town Saturday.

—H. C. Saunders and Ezra Davy left for West Hallock, Ill. Monday, where they will run the stock farm owned by C. B. Saunders, the latter remaining here and taking charge of the livery stable. We are glad that Mr and Mrs. Saunders have decided to make this village their home. They are a valuable acquisition to our business and social circles and are the right sort of people to add to our population.

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., New York.

Analysis by Dr. A. Voelcker, F. R. S., Consulting Chemist Royal Agricultural Society, England; shows only a trace of nitrates in Blackwell's Bull Durham Tobacco. The soil of the Golden Belt of North Carolina, in which this tobacco is grown, don't supply nitrates to the leaf. That is the secret of its delicious mildness. Nothing so pure and luxurious for smoking. Don't forget the brand. None genuine without the trade-mark of the Bull. All dealers have it.

THE NEWS CENTER

EVERY INTELLIGENT FAMILY WANTS A GOOD NEWSPAPER. It is one of the positive necessities. In choosing such paper due regard should be had not only to the character of the paper, but also to the place where it is edited and published. This is to be a year of great political contests, and CHICAGO WILL BE THE CENTER of the great movements. It has already been decided to hold the National Republican Convention there, and most probably the National Democratic Convention will be in the same place.

THE INTER OCEAN

Has ITS HOME IN CHICAGO, and is published EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR. It is RELIABLY REPUBLICAN, but publishes THE NEWS FOR EVERYBODY. It has a National Reputation for fairness and ability, and publishes MORE GOOD READING MATTER than any New York, Philadelphia, or Boston paper. It will give the FULLEST REPORTS of the doings of the two great National Conventions of any paper in the country. It is the best authority on WESTERN QUESTIONS and gives more attention to the development of the WESTERN TERRITORIES than any of the Great Metropolitan Dailies.

Chronic Diseases.

A Special Study for Years.

Dr. F. B. BREWER

Has made Chronic Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach. Liver, Kidneys, Nerves and Blood.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfull, chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to —"Hearts of Oak" to-night.

—The military companies drill this evening.

—Janesville Chapter No. 5, R. A. M., occupy Masonic hall this evening.

—Go to the Hearts of Oak this evening. It is a splendid drama with magnificent scenery.

—Make your arrangements to purchase a ticket for the charity dance, to be given next week Thursday, in Apollo hall.

—The reception this evening to be given to Dr. George G. Chittenden and wife, will take place at Cannon's hall, from 7.30 to 1 o'clock.

—A horse attached to a cutter, both belonging to Mr. W. B. Stoddard, indulged in a little runaway this afternoon on the west side. Damage nominal.

—The Stewart house at Palmyra, with the business portion of the village, were destroyed by fire this morning. We have not been able to obtain full particulars.

—For good "old time" solid enjoyment, take in the social and dance at Apollo hall under the auspices of the Temple of Honor to-morrow eveninig.

—Mr. John Hooley, agent for Hanley's company, was in the city to-day. The company will play McSarey's Inflation one week from to-night, when the popular prices—75, 50 and 35 cents will be charged.

—Mr. F. S. Eldred proposes this conundrum: Can a house be built in this latitude on such an angle that the sun will shine on all sides of it every day of the year? If so, how far north can such a house be built?

—Ling Wing, the Chinaman, to-day paid over the money he obtained from his countrymen in this city, and left the city, it is said in company with a Rockford policeman, who took him to that city, where Ling Wing is wanted to answer to a similar charge.

—Charles Carpenter, son of Mr. John Carpenter, met with an accident last evening while operating a buzz saw in his father's wood yard, by which he badly cut the three first fingers on the right hand. The middle finger will perhaps be permanently disabled.

—The Ogden house, Chicago, located at the corner of Washington and Franklin streets, is one of the best hotels in the city, and merits the liberal patronage it is receiving. Parties who have not made the acquaintance of the popular proprietors, Mose D. Kelly & Sons, will find it to their interest to do so when in that city.

—We take pleasure in announcing a grand concert to be given at Cannon's hall, on Wednesday evening, March 5th by Mr. Theodore Salmon, the brilliant pianist, of Milwaukee, in which he will be assisted by other talented artists. The concert can be but the event of the season.

—Among the many presents bestowed upon Mr. and Mrs. Murdock, at the wedding last evening, was one from the "wood shop of the Janesville machine company," consisting of a Jumbo masher—potato masher—and a diminutive rolling pin. Hiram tumbled to the "masher" racket, and enjoyed the "joke" as well as those who presented it. But he slyly winked at his fair bride and remarked that his "mashing" days were of the past.

—On Tuesday we published a little item from the Beloit Free Press, concerning a couple of Janesville boys who visited Beloit on Sunday with one of Harry Carter's livery rigs, supposing that the item was true. Mr. Carter informs us that that the whole item was false; that the young men who had the rig were all right, and that they did not abuse the same as charged. We copied the item supposing it was a fact, but are very sorry that the Free Press should so far forget its usual good judgment as to vent its "spleen" upon all Janesville people who chance to visit their city. The Free Press was certainly off its balance in this case.

CHARITY BALL.

One for Which All Should Lend Their Aid.

Acting-Mayor S. B. Kenyon and Supervisor I. C. Brownell are making arrangements for a grand charity ball to be given in Apollo hall on Thursday evening of next week, the proceeds of which will be donated to Miss M. A. Oberest. We learn from the above-named gentlemen that this lady has no living relatives, but is fortunate in possessing a multitude of warm friends. For nearly eighteen years she has been an invalid, suffering from a spinal difficulty. About two years ago she came to this county, and for nearly two years resided in the family of Mr. E. L. Stevens, of the town of Harmony, who have taken care of her without any financial recompense except a small amount from the county, during the latter portion of her stay with them. Last fall Rev. Mr. Cook, a retired preacher of Beaver Dam, met Miss Oberest on the cars, and becoming interested in her behalf purchased a home in this city, furnished it in a comfortable manner and has given the invalid a life lease of the same. Aldermen S. B. Kenyon and I. C. Brownell have taken upon themselves the responsibility of giving a benefit dance to aid in procuring funds for her relief. Mr. Thomas Lappin has kindly donated the hall for the occasion and the tickets have been placed at the low price of 50 cents each. The character and high standing of the gentleman at the head of the enterprise is sufficient to leave no doubt in the minds of all, but what every cent paid in will be honestly devoted to the cause for which it is intended. The citizens of Janesville have always manifested a spirit of generosity under such circumstances and we trust that this occasion may be no exception. Remember charity begins at home, and with that fact in view we bespeak for the cause the hearty support of the community.

A Quick Recovery.

It gives us great pleasure to state that the merchant who was reported to be at the point of death from an attack of Pneumonia, has entirely recovered by the use of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. Naturally he feels grateful for the benefits derived from using this remedy for the lungs and throat; and in giving publicity to this statement we are actuated by motives of public benefaction, trusting that others may be benefited in a similar manner.

Experience proves that nothing else so surely destroys Scrofula, root and branch, as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

CUPIDS CAPTIVES.

MURDOCK—CHILD.

One of the largest and happiest gatherings of friends seen in this city for a long time, was that which gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Child, on South Academy street, last evening, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Allie B. Child, and Mr. Hiram D. Murdock. The guests having arrived, a few minutes after eight o'clock Mr. J. F. Hart sat down at the piano and played "Soderman's Swedish wedding march," and the groomsman, Mr. Will P. Sayles entered the spacious parlors, escorting the happy bride to her place beneath a tripple arch of evergreens and flowers, following the bride came the groom, accompanying Miss Maud Crane as bridesmaid. As the bridal party reached the left of the handsome arch, a very neat little manœuvre was executed, by which without any apparent effort on their part, the bride and groom came handsomely, side by side underneath the arch, while the bridesmaid and groomsman reached their positions on the right and left, with perfect ease and composure. As the last note of the beautiful march was struck on the piano, Rev. Dr. M. G. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist church, arose and pronounced the holy words which bound Hiram D. Murdock and Allie B. Child together as man and wife, both parties answering the customary questions in a clear and distinct voice. Then the host of friends present pressed forward with their heartiest congratulations. The bride was handsomely attired in a dress of cream-colored cashmere and satin, with orange blossoms, and the groom in the usual black suit. The bridesmaid wore a suit of blue cashmere and pink satin. The quartet, thus standing beneath the handsome tripple arch on such a joyous occasion, presented a beautiful picture to those who witnessed it. Following this all sat down to an excellent wedding feast prepared for the occasion, to which all did ample justice. The evening flew by in social conversation, etc. Miss Maud Crane and Mr. J. F. Hart favored the company with a few pieces on the piano, and at twelve o'clock the guests repaired to their respective homes, leaving their best wishes for the happiness and prosperity of the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram D. Murdock. The presents were numerous, many of which were very valuable and useful. Mr. Murdock, the groom, is a young man well known in Janesville, full of activity and energy, and is one of the most promising young men in the city,—commanding the confidence and respect of all with whom he comes in contact. He is at present employed in the First National bank. The bride is also well known in society circles in this city, her merry disposition winning her hosts of friends on every hand. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock will reside for the present with the bride's parents on Academy street.

Faith.

In matters of medicine is said to be half a remedy; but in desperate, tantalizing, chronic diseases, such as rheumatism, it is hard to get up faith. That was the reason why Rev. A. C. Hume, of Indianapolis, preferred to test ATHLOPHOROS in about the severest case he could find before he pronounced upon its merits. He writes: "The case was of rheumatism of twenty years' standing. The patient could not walk except with two canes or by pushing a chair before him. In short time after taking ATHLOPHOROS he could walk without canes or the chair."

Concordia Private Masquerade.

Parties wishing to rent masques before the evening of the masquerade, can secure the same from Madame Fransel, at room No. 4, first floor, under Concordia hall, on Tuesday, the 26th, from 9 until 12 o'clock in the morning, and 1 until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Also, during the evening. Parties holding invitations, wishing to purchase tickets before the evening of the masquerade, can have the same by applying at the following named places: John Kneff, at Sonneborn's store; Joseph Hofmeister's, John Bauman's, John F. Ehrlinger's, and Albert Bender's.

Go north or south you will find Baxter's Mandrake Bitters a valuable preventive of diseases. Price 25 cents. Sold by Stearns & Baker.

For the removal of dandruff, and for curing humors of the scalp, nothing can be better than Ayer's Hair Vigor.

A New Jewelry House.

Mr. S. Tobias is just opening in the old store opposite the postoffice, formerly occupied by Messrs. Wallis & Co., a very complete line of watches and jewelry. Mr. Tobias comes to Janesville, after eighteen years experience in the business, to remain. His store is being fitted up with all the modern improvements, including dust proof show cases, which are well filled with an attractive stock of new goods. We bespeak for him a cordial welcome on the part of our citizen.

THE SAD RESULTS OF WAR.

5000 Union Soldiers Killed in Ten Minutes, at Fredricksburg—Also 12,000 Killed in 30 minutes, at Cold Harbor.

However. Campbell & Stevens, real estate agents, still survive, and propose to continue in business with very plausible reasons for not advertising more extensively.

1st, that the many tokens of friendship from acquaintances and not on the part of patrons and customers, or to say the least satisfactory, hence extensive advertising is now unnecessary.

2nd. That they are now enjoying the lion's share in the patronage and confidence of the entire community, is evident by the following amount of property now in their hands for disposal: Several first class flouring mills, shops, store buildings, factories, etc., and choice city and village property to a great amount, besides about five thousand acres of land, in large and small farms, scattered over the country round about Janesville, to be sold at prices and on terms to suit purchasers. Experience and indefatigable energy will shortly transfer the most of it without extensive advertising.

3d, Their custom of giving all customers a free ride to see what they have for sale, and sowing broadcast over the country, description circulars, maps, &c., of the many thousand acres of western land for which they are agents, has already been extensively advertised.

4th. The fact that they have sold over two hundred thousand dollars worth of property within the past eighteen months is proof positive that push, pluck and perseverance are equal to extensive advertising. So it is.

FIRE PROTECTION.

The New System at the Monterey Cotton Factory.

The Grinnell Automatic Sprinkler and Fire Alarm.

This morning, by invitation of the managers of the Janesville Cotton factory, we, in company with the officials of that company the leading insurance men Messrs. Dimock & Hayner, Ripley & Dutton, and John G. Saxe; Mr. A. F. Glass, business manager, and Superintendent S. C. Cobb, of the Janesville machine company, and several other gentlemen, visited the Monterey cotton factory for the purpose of witnessing the operations of the Grinnell Automatic Sprinkler, recently put in the factory for fire protection. The test was made under the direction of Mr. A. F. Nagle, general agent for the western states. Arriving at the factory we were somewhat surprised to see the building so well provided with fire protection, and doubt if there is another building in the state so well protected as this.

Lines of pipes are carried through the building, near the ceiling, from eight to ten feet apart; and these are all connected with a larger pipe leading from the tank in the To each of the lines of pipe, and about ten feet apart, the automatic sprinklers are attached. Should a fire start at any point, the heat at once rises to the ceiling, where the temperature is very soon raised sufficiently to melt the fusible solder (which melts at 160 degrees Fah.,) the valve is then released, and the water, which is under pressure in the pipes, is profusely distributed on the fire. The company have a large boiler tank in the top of the coupola, which holds one thousand gallon of water, and upon this tank or boiler, an atmospheric pressure of 80 pounds is maintained, giving the pressure required to force the water as above. Two tests were made this morning, one of which was the throwing of a good stream of water upon the roof of the building through a line of hose, and the other in the machinery room from one of the automatic valves, both of which worked to the entire satisfaction of all. The working of the valves was a good test, and demonstrating that it would be an impossibility for the factory to burn with this system in operation. The party assembled in the room, when Mr. John Clukey, one of the section hands, struck a match and held it under the valve, and in less than four seconds the valve opened, the gong sounded, and a spray commenced to pour out of the pipes at this point sufficient to extinguish any fire within a radius of fifteen feet of the valve. The piping of the building is complete, and as Mr. Cobb, of the Janesville machine company, remarked, is perfect, not a leak was noticed in the entire building. Besides this system, the company have put in a powerful fire pump, with a capacity equal to both of our steam fire engines, which is also constantly ready for use. The system is a good one, and when the lower cotton factory burns up it will be when the tank is empty, and all the watchmen are asleep.

The factory is now running at about two-thirds of its capacity, and is a very lively place. Mr. Nagle remarked to us that the Monterey mill was the best equipped of any in the United States, all the machinery being of the latest pattern and best made, and supplied with all the modern improvements and conveniences.

Unquestionable Cheek.

We like cheek, but the gall of the hack driver who tried to fleece three wedding guests out of a fee, to be appropriated to his own use when the bridegroom had paid for the carriages, suits us too well. It didn't work, however.

The above item found in the columns of the Recorder this morning, not only reflects on the character of the hackmen of the city, but also implies that our liverymen countenance practices that would be considered questionable.. The facts in the case referred to are simply these. Hacks had been engaged to take guests to and from the wedding last evening. A party of three young men, including the gentlemanly quill driver of the morning sheet, wanted to be carried to Apollo hall. When they stepped into the carriage, the driver politely informed them that the hacks were not engaged for that purpose, and that they would be obliged to pay for the ride. They made the trip but neglected to pay, thus exhibiting "cheek and gall" enough to "fleece" the driver in a manner that "did work, however."

The proprietor of the establishment tells us to-day that his driver was right in the position he took, and the only mistake he made was in allowing the party to get away without paying the bill. We see no good reason to question his statement.

The privileges of courtesy should not be abused, and our cotemporary would do well to consider that it is easy to injure character, but is not a commendable thing to do.

A SENSATION.

Which Caused Considerable Commotion at a Happy Wedding Party.

A Fifty Dollar Cash Present Stolen From the Table.

The marriage, last evening, of Mr. Hiram D. Murdock and Miss Allie B. Child, notice of which is published elsewhere, was one of the happiest gatherings ever assembled in this city. Usually on such occasions, the company is more disposed to exclude all attempts at making merry over the wedding ceremonies, and rather treat it with great dignity and the most august solemnity. But not so last evening. While all behaved with the modesty becoming ladies and gentleman, there was much humor prevailing among all present, from the Rev. Doctor of Divinity, officiating at the ceremony, who took occasion to fire a pleasant humorous remark at the newspaper reporters, to the little boy of five summers, who let himself out at the supper table. All were enjoying the wedding festival to its fullest extent. The handsome and accomplished bride, was mingling freely with the large number of guests, and receiving the pleasant jokes of her many intimate friends, while the groom wore one of his happiest smiles, saluted all, and "catching onto" everything in a matter-of-course way. One great center of attraction was the room in which the presents were displayed. The presents were many, some very beautiful, rich and costly, one consisting of five ten-dollar gold pieces, was in an envelope placed on the top of a handsome bible, also one of the presents. The envelope in which was the glittering gold, seemed to be noticed by all the guests, more from the simple inscription, "From Uncle and Aunt." A few minutes after supper, this envelope was missing. It had been stolen. At first an attempt was made by Mr. and Mrs. Child and the groom, to keep the fact from the knowledge of the guests; but soon it became generally known, when intense excitement and deep humiliation took possession of the large number of guests present. All seemed to eye one another with suspicion. It was suggested that a committee should be appointed, and the party searched for the missing coins. The good-natured host and hostess and the groom, discouraged this idea; they did not wish for any such proceeding on such an occasion; if any one present was so lost to all respect for himself and those around him as to steal the present, let him keep it. But this did not seem to satisfy the guests, who at the suggestion of ex-mayor Cobb, repaired to an adjoining room, the men all alone, and there the guests appointed a committee who searched all. This being done, the lady guests followed the example, until all had gone through the trying ordeal, and, so far, removing any suspicion. The house was thoroughly searched but no clue to the missing present could be found, and it was given up as lost.

This, we believe, is the first instance on record, when such a sensation has taken place at a wedding. We have heard, a large force of detectives being employed at the great parties given by the Vanderbilts and the Astors, of New York, to watch the guests that no articles should be clandestinely taken away; but never have we heard of such a proceeding among the people of a community like ours.

There are many rumors afloat concerning this affair, but they are without any foundation. The above are the facts, and are stated as much for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. Child, as for the guests who were present.

Thank You Gentlemen.

There bounced into my store last week the important official known as the "sealer of weights and measures," after carefully examining my scales, which with difficulty he found correct, his eagle eye espied an innocent looking tin measure which I had always supposed to hold a good liberal gallon, without the aid of spectacles he pronounced it too small and said I must either buy a new measure, have a piece put onto the old one, or answer to the law for violating the same. Having always been a law-abiding citizen, I chose the last proposition, and to-day had the pleasure of appearing in the municipal court with my little measure for inspection. The result was most satisfactory and the only complaint proved was the fact that the measure was too large. Now, gentlemen, I want you to understand that "flour rises," and short measures are just the kind of advertising I want. The people of Janesville and Rock county are learning very fast that Solid Gold and Diamond Dust are not only good goods, but that everything else from the C. O. D. is good and cheap. Our measures hold full, and hold out.

F. S. WINSLOW, C. O. D.

LATER.

Since writing the above, I have taken occasion to go to the city sealer and have my measure stamped. He very kindly put his seal on two measures that the examining committee found too large; but on another one which the inspectors found correct. He refuses to put the official stamp.

Our readers will find all the medicines advertised in this paper at Prentice & Evenson's drug store, opposite the postoffice. They keep all the principal patent medicines in the market, and undoubtedly have the largest stock in the city.
